ANNOUNCEMENTS

We are authorized to announce CHARLEY EDWARDS as a candidate for the Republican nomination for County Court Clerk of Lawrence-co., at the primary to be held in August, 1921.

Friday, July 30, 1922.

P. Watt Hardin, once the Democratic nominee for Governor of Kentucky, died in Virginia and the body was taken to Frankfort, Ky., for burial.

Attorney Wm. Duffy, of Louisville, was in Louisa this week on business. He was a classmate of Fred M. Vinson at Center College. For two or three terms he represented a Louisville district in the Legislature.

Senator Freelinghuysen, whoever he may be, (name sounds like he hails from Germany) says in labored diction that "the Democratic platform was dictated by President Wilson." If so, no greater recommendation for the platform could be offered.

It is said the agitator and organizer at the head of the trouble in the mining section of Mingo-co., W. Va., is a Russian "Red," which means an anarchist or Bolshevik of the worst type. All such fellows should be deported. A man who travels through that coal field regularly says no American citizens are leading in the trouble; and that 80 per cent of the miners would prefer to return to the former conditions, but are intimidated by the wild element that has assumed control.

YOU LIVE IN "GOD'S COUNTRY."

During the next few months there will be much deplored doing by the political wisecracks. No doubt there are lots of things in this country that are not as they should be and lots more that are not what we would like them to be.

But while you listen to the deploring, some of which you may deplore yourself, don't let them beguile you from the fact that we have a great country, with great resources, great prospects and that every man in America gets benefits out of the said fact whether he is poor or rich.

Although the United States has only about 6 per cent of the world's population and 7 per cent of its land, this God's country of ours produces 20 per cent of the world's supply of gold, 22 per cent of the world's supply of wheat, 40 per cent of the world's supply of iron and steel, 40 per cent of the world's supply of lead, 40 per cent of the world's supply of silver, 50 per cent of the world's supply of zinc, 52 per cent of the world's supply of coal, 60 per cent of the world's supply of cotton, 60 per cent of the world's supply of aluminum, 60 per cent of the world's supply of copper, 65 per cent of the world's supply of oil, 75 per cent of the world's supply of corn, 85 per cent of the world's supply of automobiles.

Jeff Newberry on Committee to Notify Cox

The Huntington Herald says:—"I think you will find that Cox will put Harding off that front porch," said Jeff Newberry, prominent Huntingtonian, who was a delegate-at-large at San Francisco in discussing the democratic convention. Mr. Newberry returned to Huntington Tuesday.

He says the San Francisco convention was the greatest in history and that the nominations were made by the delegates and not by leaders in committee and conference rooms. "The convention," he said, "was absolutely unbiased. I think the two men we nominated were the strongest we could have found and I believe that our chances for victory are bright."

Mr. Newberry is a member of the notification committee which is to bear to Governor Cox, of Ohio, the official intelligence of the honor bestowed upon him by the San Francisco convention.

While the date has not been set, Mr. Newberry is of the opinion that the notification will be at Dayton, the home of Governor Cox, about August 1. Each state has a representative on the notification committee. Mr. Newberry was chosen by the West Virginia delegation to represent this state.

Mr. Newberry says that he and Oscar Starnard were ready to switch to Cox on the closing ballots, after the West Virginia delegation had stood by its guns through the long fight in support of John W. Davis, ambassador to England, the state's "favorite son" candidate. They had determined to force the issue and vote for Cox on the last ballot taken and one of them was ready to call the chairman and demand a poll of the delegation when the McAdoo chairman moved to make the nomination of Cox unanimous.

Frederick Shannon returned Sunday after a visit to friends in Huntington and Logan, W. Va.

To Rise Again.

If one fall meant failure, most men would be hopelessly doomed. Failure is not in an act, but in a frame of mind. An act may be repented of and atoned for, but a frame of mind colors the whole life. If men fail to stay down, all achievement is at an end; but if they fail to rise again, there is no limit to what they can accomplish. It is a provision of infinite mercy that the vilest sinner, if he will, may find his way back to the Father's house.—New Orleans Christian Advocate.

The Value of the Church.

A splendid tribute was paid recently to the value of the Churches of our country by Mr. Roger W. Babson, a well known financial authority. He asserts that the value of all investments depends not on the strength of our banks, but rather upon the strength of our churches. For the real security of the stocks, bonds, mortgages, deeds, and other investments is the integrity of the community. He adds: "The steel boxes, the legal papers, and the other things which we look upon as so important are the mere shells of eggs."

Devotional Hour.

The Chautauque Daily publishes the following:
Dr. Frederick F. Shannon spoke in his third devotional hour, Wednesday at 9:45 a. m., in the Amphitheater, on "The House of Life." The text was Luke 22:12. "And he will show you a large upper room, furnished." Dr. Shannon said:

If we were asked where we lived, we might speak geographically, indicating the position of our home; yet again we might answer the question in another way—for our real home is the spirit, the house of life.

In considering the house of life we will first take the master of the house. Nobody knows who was the master of the house that it speaks about in our lesson for the morning (Luke 22). But we do know that the master of the house of life is God. How do we think of the Master of our house? First as the Creator. Secondly as the Sustainer, and thirdly as the Redeemer—one who can plunge into the burning, writhing depths of humanity and save the souls of men. Last of all is that wonderful conception of God, the Master of our house of life, as Father, our Father.

What are the dimensions of this house of life? It is a large, splendid room in which we live. Why should we be narrow in such a spacious house of life? The man who walks along one pathway of life is so hedged in that he must take care lest he become so small that he is unaware of the magnificent expanse of our vast dwelling.

And the location of our house? The room in Luke 22 was an upper room. So we may call our house of life an upper room. It is above the sordid realities of life, and stretches far away to the stars.

Finally our house of life is furnished. You could build the most beautiful house in the world, but without furniture it would not be a home. So it is true of the soul. What would our great souls do without the furniture of character? Among the most necessary pieces of furniture in the great house of life is moral courage—without which no such dwelling can be complete. Another piece rarely found in our spirit homes, but which is priceless in value, is "appreciation of the other person's point of view." Last of all we must see that in this great upper room the beautiful, always alluring piece of furniture, Christian love, is present. That is the greatest and at the same time the most difficult of the furnishings. Our house of life cannot be perfect without this.

In conclusion Dr. Shannon told the beautiful story of George Matheson, and the writing of the wonderful hymn, "O Love that Will Not Let Me Go."
